DT and IF® Teacher

“I made metal-frame bridges manually for years, both metal-ceramic and metal-composite. When my boss switched us to digital production, I was skeptical. However, digital production made my work easier, cleaner, faster, and more profitable, with perfect fittings. Using zirconium, I fully appreciated the benefits. I’ll never go back to metal—no more casting, cuvettes, or metal splinters.”

Course Highlights:

Introduction to full Zirconium and PMMA Bridges for Immediate Functional Loading with the Strategic Implant® Concept

Hands-on work with impressions, pouring models, reading bites, and articulator use

Tooth setup according to Strategic Implant® rules

Digital modeling and design of Zirconium and PMMA bridges using Exocad

Scanning, digital smile design and milling

Customized tooth setup libraries, printing prototypes, and transfer keys

Gingiva ceramics application and composite work for both Zirconium and PMMA bridges

I'm glad I took this course and mastered this technology.

Your technician should be able to produce teeth within a few hours that are pleasing to the patient and comply with the protocol. Sanela is a professional in this matter. She will teach you how to do it.

I advise doctors who want to be successful in applying immediate loading technology on Cortico-basal® implants to take this course themselves and train their dental technicians.
